Government Web Site Helps Businesses Find Federal Compliance Information

For the first time, businesses can find compliance information from across the U.S. government on one Web site, www.business.gov. Business.gov, the official business link to the U.S. government, publicly re-launches in October 2006 to focus on compliance information, federal forms and government compliance contacts. This saves businesses both time and money in locating information on tax, labor, environmental, immigration and other regulations.

Businesses can quickly search on Business.gov for compliance information by topic and industry and for federal forms from all major U.S. federal agencies regulating or serving businesses. State and municipal compliance information is also being phased into the site. Business.gov is managed by the U.S. Small Business Administration in a partnership with 21 federal agencies and is part of the President's Management Agenda.

Note to editors: The new www.business.gov Web site will be available on September 29, 2006 but is being publicized effective October, 2006.
